Liability Insurance and Legal Services

WASA active members are protected in legal situations with a $250,000 Educators Professional Liability Policy.

Active members also are eligible for legal assistance with due process, contract issues, and other issues related to their professional assignment.

Individual Assistance

WASA staff are always on call to offer members individual assistance with administrative issues, employment information, problem solving, and counseling.

Networking and Leadership Opportunities

WASA members are part of a valuable network of colleagues who share ideas and strategies, solve problems, and address common concerns. Alignment with one of five component groups ensures members receive valuable interaction and networking opportunities within job professions in addition to more expansive networking opportunities.

Proactively serving today's education leaders.

The Washington Association of School Administrators is committed to the development of quality education through professional leadership. Members benefit from a supportive community of professional leaders working to:

- Provide in concert with AWSP, OSPI and their professional organizations, a researched based, high quality leadership academy for ongoing professional development.
- Sustain a positive impact on legislative and community leaders to meet the demands of school administrators in Washington State. WASA is taking a lead in efforts to secure ample school funding for districts statewide through the Ample School Funding Project.

Governmental Relations

WASA members form a powerful, collective voice in support of public education. WASA's highly regarded legislative team is actively involved with all legislation affecting Washington's public schools. WASA communicates member insights to legislators and policymakers in Washington State and provides members access to the latest happenings in the legislative arena.

Access to Critical Information

Current issues, events, and other useful items are communicated to members through several mediums.

- WASA's website, www.wasa-oly.org, features current information on hot topics, legislative activity, professional development, career opportunities, and other newsworthy items.
- WASA's monthly newsletter, Hotline, delivers recent news and upcoming activities.
- Email alerts communicate critical issues and time-sensitive data.
- Special focus publications include the annual Legislative Session Guide and end of session Legislative Report, plus series booklets like Best Practices for Closing the Achievement Gap Through Shared Leadership.
- This Week In Olympia (TWIO) is a weekly communication distributed during the legislative session.
- Annual regional pictorial directories are a useful tool for establishing relationships with colleagues within the WASA regions.

"The three most important reasons to establish and maintain membership in WASA are: the relevant professional growth opportunities pertinent to the ever-changing administrative landscape, opportunities to develop meaningful professional relationships with fellow school administrators, and the eagerness and willingness of members to offer ideas, support to peers, and consistently model the ideal that we're all in this together."

*Howard King, Superintendent
Elma School District*

WASA's Mission

WASA is committed to leadership: leadership in providing equity and excellence in student learning, and leadership in developing competent, ethical and visionary leaders by: providing member services, offering growth opportunities for leaders, and promoting community and legislative support for education.

Washington Association of School Administrators

"Now, more than ever, the field of education needs our best collective thinking, organizing, and mobilizing to succeed in these challenging times—our challenges are economic, educational, and political. We need the synergy, efficiency, and support that an organization like WASA provides. WASA helps bring our best collective work. WASA has a strong executive staff, but we must consider that any organization is only as good as its executive leadership and its membership. That is why WASA needs you—educational professionals representing all roles in school administration, giving your best, expecting the best, and building a truly powerful organization."

*Monte L. Bridges, Ed.D., Superintendent
Puget Sound Educational Service District*
