This Week in Review

About TWIO

This Week in Olympia is emailed to active WASA and AEA members each Friday during the Legislative Session and is posted on WASA's website at <https://wasa-oly.org/TWIO>.

During the final week of the 2017 Regular Session, both houses spent most of their time in their respective chambers taking action on a series of bills on each Concurrence Calendar (discussed below). It appears most of that work—at least what they are willing to act on and excepting budget-related bills—is complete. A few remaining priorities in which there is agreement on both sides may be acted upon later today; however, both the House and Senate are expected to adjourn relatively early in the day, allowing members to return home for part of the weekend. Although there was much speculation in the last several weeks about the Legislature adjourning early, it is clear they will wait until Sunday, April 23, Day 105—and the last allowed day for the Regular Session—to adjourn Sine Die. With no work expected to be done this weekend, final adjournment today, tomorrow, or Sunday is merely symbolic (in addition to the extra two days of per diem for legislators).

Knowing the Legislature has much work yet to complete before ultimately adjourning for good, the question outstanding has been not if, but when, a Special Session would be called. Talk around town is that many legislators want to wait until the next Revenue Forecast (June 15) to really get down to business, which has led to speculation that Governor Inslee would wait until perhaps as late as June to reconvene the Legislature. Now it appears he's ready to issue his required proclamation calling for a Special Session to begin immediately, April 24. It is likely that most rank-and-file members will return to Olympia (or stay in Olympia if they are here for the closing of the Session on Sunday), attend the opening of the Special Session, but will return home shortly thereafter.

It is to-be-determined, but it is likely the Legislature will move into a “rolling recess.” During a rolling recess, Leadership and negotiators on the budgets—and this year, presumably the Education Funding Task Force—remain in town hammering through details in an effort to reach final, compromise legislation, but rank-and-file members return home and await a call to return back to Olympia. Legally, during a legislative session, whether it be a Regular Session or a Special Session, the Legislature must convene in open session a specific number of times in a given week; however, those sessions will be “Pro Forma” Sessions, wherein no real business takes place. The time between the opening gavel and the closing gavel during most Pro Forma

Sessions is very short, but with Leadership in town, they can cover the ceremonial duty of convening the required number of sessions.

While the clock ticked down and the assumption of a required Special Session increased, legislators continued to be fairly productive in terms of moving bills. Several issues of interest to school administrators were acted upon recently:

Public Record Act

Legislation to assist local governments, including school districts, in dealing with the growing administrative and fiscal burden of public records requests were fairly well received this session. As mentioned in last week's TWIO, the Local Government Coalition (comprised of associations representing Cities, Counties, School Districts, Ports, Libraries, Fire Commissioners, Public Hospitals, and others) has been backing two bills addressing the Public Records Act (PRA) this session: HB 1594 and HB 1595. Both bills were advancing positively and it was hoped that at least one of the bills would reach the end of the legislative journey. Earlier this week, the House concurred in Senate amendments to both bills, sending each to the governor's desk for action.

HB 1594 would direct the Attorney General to establish a consultation program to assist local governments with best practices for managing public records requests and require the Division of Archives and Records Management to provide training to local agencies on records retention practices and to establish a competitive grant program for local agencies to improve their information technology systems. Additionally, the State Archives is authorized to conduct a feasibility study for establishing a statewide Internet portal for public records management. HB 1595, addresses the growing costs to local governments responding to public records requests. The bill would amend PRA and authorize local governments and agencies to charge for providing copies of electronically produced public records and would establish a default fee schedule for those types of records. The bill would also authorize a customized service charge for locating and preparing public records for complex requests. To help eliminate harassing requests, the bill would: provide that a request for all or substantially all agency records is not a valid request for identifiable records under the Public Records Act; and allow agencies to deny frequent automatically generated requests for public records that would interfere with the other essential functions of the agency.

School Siting

The long journey to authorize schools to be sited outside of an Urban Growth Area (UGA) under the Growth Management Act (GMA) may finally be ending. After several years, this year's bill, HB 1017, has finally passed both houses and awaits action by the governor. Amendments adopted by the Senate caused some confusion—and concern—that the bill might actually limit, rather than expand, options for some school districts. Earlier this week, the House concurred with Senate amendments, but prior to adopting the bill, supporting Representatives engaged in a colloquy to clarify the impacts of the bill (watch the short exchange on TVW). It is hoped this "Q&A" provides sufficient clarification of intent. The final bill does the following:

- Provides the GMA does not prohibit a county planning fully under the GMA from authorizing the extension of public facilities and utilities to serve a school sited in a rural area under certain conditions, including, among others, that the county and any affected cities agree with the siting, that any public facility or utility that is extended beyond the Urban Growth Area to serve the school is limited in the number of other properties that it may serve, and that any impacts associated with the siting of the school are mitigated as required by the State Environmental Policy Act;
- Permits a public facility or utility extended beyond the Urban Growth Area in order to serve a school to also serve a property or properties in addition to the school, provided that the county and any affected cities agree with the request and provided that the property is located no further from the public facility or utility than the distance that, if the property were within the Urban Growth Area, the property would be required to connect to the public facility or utility;

- Permits a county to site in the rural area a school that serves students from an urban area, even where otherwise prohibited by a multicounty planning policy, under certain conditions, including, among others, that the county must have a population greater than 840,000 but less than 1,500,000;
- Requires amendment of any multicounty planning policy in which any county that sites a school in the rural area is a participant, at the next regularly scheduled update;
- Requires, for any county that sites a school in the rural area and that is also a participant in a multicounty planning policy, that the school districts in such a county participate in the county's periodic comprehensive plan updates;
- Modifies the GMA's definition of "rural governmental services" to include schools serving primarily rural students; and
- Modifies the GMA's definition of "urban governmental services" to include schools.

Paraeducators

The race between competing bills on paraeducators training/certification has ended. SB 5070 was adopted by the Senate, but failed to move out of the House. HB 1115, however, moved through the full process and is awaiting action by the governor. HB 1115 was amended by the Senate; however, earlier this week, the House concurred with those amendments. The bill as adopted would create a Paraeducator Board and the new Board would: adopt minimum employment requirements for paraeducators and paraeducator standards of practice; establish requirements and policies for paraeducator specialty certificates in ELL and special education; approve courses of study necessary to meet the state standards of practice for paraeducators; collaborate with the OSPI to adapt the E-Certification process to include paraeducator specialty certificates; and adopt rules for the effective and efficient implementation of the new law. Paraeducators would be required to meet minimum employment standards by September 1, 2017 and districts would be required to provide paraeducators with access to a course of study on the state standards of practice, beginning September 1, 2019. Training of current teachers and principals on how to work with paraeducators; providing grants to districts to pilot the standards and specialty certificates; a study on the effectiveness of paraeducators; and incorporation of the paraeducator standards of practice into paraeducator degree and certificate programs are all requirements subject to funding by the Legislature.

Budget Update

As this Legislature moves into a Special Session budget talks are not simply at an impasse—they continue to be non-existent. Both Republican and Democratic Leadership again used their weekly media availabilities to poke their counterparts and blame the other side for a lack of progress. Senate Republicans continue to refuse to negotiate with the House until they adopt a revenue package to fund their budget. . .and House Democrats continue to maintain their position that they will not adopt their revenue package until there is an agreement on a budget, so both sides know how much revenue is needed.

While now is the time for reconciliation and compromise, both sides have hardened their own positions and appear to be digging in. The more each side digs in, the harder it will be to relent because the side that ultimately “gives up” will certainly lose face. Sometimes in politics the only thing worse than losing is being embarrassed. On the other hand, history has shown that right about the time it appears there is no possible way to find a solution is when the logjam breaks. It doesn’t seem clear that we’re at that near-hopeless stage, yet, so we continue to wait.

Education Funding Plans

Members of the bi-cameral, bi-partisan Education Funding Task Force (EFTF) continue to regularly meet. While members continue to be tight-lipped about their work, all sides agree that they are making progress in their work. As the Special Session begins, WASA along with our counterparts in the Local Funding Workgroup will continue to remind legislators, and specifically EFTF members, of our priorities. We continue to encourage you to utilize the education funding recommendations developed by the Local Funding Workgroup. Now is the time to maintain our common and consistent message as legislators start to move to the heart of an education funding solution.

As noted earlier, it is assumed that rank-and-file members will return home during the Special Session. If so, this would be an excellent time to continue to meet with your local legislators. They will likely have more time and will be less distracted by the day-to-day issues of the Legislative Session. While you continue to engage with legislators, we encourage you to focus on just a few of the key issues that would especially impact your district—remember to “tell your story.” Explain to your legislators what the impacts of adopting—or not adopting—a particular recommendation will be to your district.

There is one new note about education funding negotiations. Last week, after we published our TWIO, the House Republicans released their set of “education funding principles.” While they established these principles—and potentially a full education funding plan—quite some time ago, they have been hesitant to release them publicly. They maintained the position that, with proposals from the Senate Republicans and the House/Senate Democrats on the table, they would keep their ideas close to the vest and only inject them into the system to help break a logjam. Part of the reason they have been reluctant to discuss their principles is that they do not fully align with their Senate Republican counterpart’s positions. The following House Republican education funding principles were outlined in last week’s edition of the House Republican weekly newsletter, The Current:

- No school district should receive less money under any new plan compared to current law.
- Our state should increase state salary allocations to ensure all teachers are paid market rate.
- Using new salary allocations, each district should have a “box” for total spending on salaries.
- We value a transparent K–12 funding system, but also recognize the need to maintain formula-based inputs to demonstrate the connection between the state’s program of basic education and actual cost.
- Local collective bargaining should be preserved, but subject to new constraints.
- Local enrichment levies should be preserved.
- Smaller K–3 class sizes should remain a priority, with funding tied to the actual class-size demonstrated.
- New tax increases should be a last resort.

This Week in Olympia:
Week 15,
April 17-21, 2017

If you line the House Republican principles side-by-side with the Local Funding Workgroup recommendations, you will see some consistency. Hopefully, the release of these principles really can assist in bringing the two parties together on some of the sticky issues in which they have disagreements, including the maintenance of some type of structure for salary allocations, the continuation of the Prototypical School Funding Model and the preservation of collective bargaining with new limits.

AEA

By Mitch Denning

Today is the 103rd day of a 105-day regular session, and it looks for sure like the Legislature is going into “overtime,” or a 30-day special session. The Governor will make his decision soon.

The operating budget and K–12 education funding plan are the two sticking points resulting in the Legislature not finishing its work in the allotted time. Since 2010, only the 2014 session finished on time; all others have had at least one special session.

In last week’s TWIO, we mentioned the document, Coalitions of Washington Education Associations’ Local Funding Work Group Funding Recommendations, which was sent on April 13 to the Governor, all legislators, and legislative staff members. With the special session looming, we feel even stronger that these recommendations provide a clear path solve the McCleary directive and accompanying budget bills.

WSNA continues to watch the fate of ESHB 1508, WA Kids Ready to Learn Act of 2017, as it’s included in the House-passed 2015–17 Operating Budget, SHB 1067.

Both associations support the kitchen equipment grants ($1M) which are found as part of the Healthy Kids/Healthy Schools (HKHS) grants in both approved capital budgets, SHB 1075 and ESSB 5086. Also, included in both budgets as part of the HKHS grants are replacement of lead-contaminated drinking water fixtures ($1M) and purchase of physical equipment ($1M).

WAMOA is pleased that after an absence of four years, the Urgent Repair Grant is back in both capital budgets ($3M). This will allow districts to meet critical health and safety needs which currently lack sufficient resources to do so.

WAMOA is also watching the progress of SHB 1017, school siting, as 28 school districts would like to locate needed schools outside the Urban Growth Area in several parts of the state. The Senate-amended bill was passed on final passage by the House on Tuesday, and is now on its way to the Governor’s desk. The bill clearly helps districts in Pierce County, but the language is unclear as to how it helps or hinders districts in other parts of the state.

Heck, what's a little extortion among friends?

Bill Watterson

As the legislature continues to operate behind closed doors, there are numerous work groups dealing with the unresolved issues. Obvious ones like dealing with the funding of education, the biennial budgets, and teacher recruitment are just some of the examples. It's mildly (?) ironic that although the legislature is not reluctant to deal with changes in the Open Public Meetings Act which affect school districts and other public entities, they hold themselves exempt from those same provisions. Thus, most of these issues are dealt with in the shadows.

One work group that has been working behind the scenes is dealing with ESHB 1116. City, county, and retail groups have been working with legislators and union representatives to negotiate an acceptable bill. The legislators include: Senate Democrats: Keiser, Lias, and Coway (unofficial); Senate Republicans: Baumgartner, Brown, and Fain; Democrat Representatives: Springer and Farrell; and Republican Representatives; Manweller and McCabe.

Family and Medical LeaveESHB 1116 – Implementing Family and Medical Leave Insurance

This bill would grant new extended leaves from a newly established account funded by a charge paid by both employers and employees. Depending on the type of leave, 12 to 26 weeks of leave for serious health conditions, military exigency, and a child's birth or placement would be paid from an account established through assessing fees. This would be administered by the Employment Security Department.

The fiscal note indicates a projected cost to school districts in 2017–2019 of $46.8 million dollars rising to $75 million in 2019–2021. These costs do not include the costs of substitutes.

There is a desire and push by various labor organizations and the Economic Opportunity Institute \(EOI\) to get a bill out of this current legislative session. EOI is a Seattle-based, not-for-profit public policy institute working to promote economic security and educational opportunity for all.

Employer groups are being told that either they can be at the table now to help craft/negotiate an acceptable bill dealing with extended leaves or EOI and others will craft and run an initiative campaign for the voters. The employer groups are all too aware that the Legislature's past failure to pass a minimum wage proposal resulted in an initiative (I-1433) before the voters that was approved. Arguments made at that time by the employer groups and certain legislators that a state-wide solution to the minimum wage proposal may be less draconian than any crafted initiative did not convince the legislature to act. Hence, the initiative. That same thinking is what's in play on this issue regarding leaves. "Either play with us now, or accept what the voters may approve."
